Grading and Partial Credit

• Full credit is awarded only when all the necessary work to justify an answer is shown.
  – A correct answer obtained without the necessary work, obtained incorrectly, or obtained by a combination of fortuitous circumstances will not receive credit.
  – Check the reasonableness of your solution. When convenient and possible to do so, check your answer (logically, algebraically, and arithmetically)! If your answer is unreasonable and you cannot find your error, indicate that your error is unreasonable.
  – If a method is specified for a problem, you must solve the problem with the method specified to receive credit.

• Partial credit is awarded only for significant and substantial progress towards a solution.
  – Credit is determined by all your legible and easily readable work. Cross-out what you do not want to count!
  – You will not be given partial credit for attempting to solve a problem with an incorrect method.
